

We Want to Know

—How an antimatter physicist reacted to the Fukushima Accident—

Prof. Ryugo HAYANO
University of Tokyo

and

Shigesato ITOI
Copywriter, Essayist

February 22 (Mon) 14:00-15:30

Venue: B250

English and Japanese with Simultaneous Interpretation / 日英同時通訳

In this seminar, Prof. Ryugo HAYANO, an antimatter physicist from the University of Tokyo, will introduce what he has done and has been doing after the Fukushima Nuclear Disaster. He used his personal Twitter account as an effective medium to distribute the data he collected from a scientist's perspective.

Mr. Shigesato ITOI is one of the most influential individuals amongst Japanese intellectuals. Mr. ITOI has worked closely with Prof. HAYANO, supporting his individual activities driven by the strong sense of duty as a scientist.

The talk will be based on the book “We Want to Know” – a dialogic book by ITOI and HAYANO.
