

Environmental enrichment program for lab rodents---from a pharmaceutical company perspective

Wanyong (William) Pang

Translational In vivo Models Global Research Platform, Sanofi R&D

Contents: This presentation will briefly introduce the concept of environment enrichment, explain why enrichment should be provided to laboratory rodents, and considerations regarding how to design, implement, evaluate and then possibly optimize an enrichment program. AAALAC International's expectation on enrichment will be shared. Sanofi's rodent enrichment program will be presented, as an example of a global pharmaceutical company's current practice.
